BIBLIOGRAPHY

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Commission & Northern Territory. (1996). Strong business, strong culture, strong country. Canberra.

Bell, D. (1998). Ngarrindjeri wurrwarrin: A world that is, was and will be. Melbourne: Spinifex.

Ceballos-Lascuráin, A. H. (1987). Estudio de prefactibilidad socioeconómica del turismo ecológico y anteproyecto arquitectónico del Centro de Turismo Ecológico de Sian Ka’an, Quintana Roo. Mexico City: SEDUE.

Council for Aboriginal Reconciliation. (1999). Reconciliation learning circle kit. Developed by Australian Association for Adult and Community Education.

Equations. (2004). Why the GATS is a wrong framework through which to liberalise tourism. Policy briefing paper to the WTO-OMT International symposium on trade in tourism services.

Green Travel. (1999). web discussion group, at Green-Travel@peach.ease.lsoft.com, communications from DaveK@iipt.org on 6 April 1999 on IIPIT Glasgow conference.

Green Travel. (2005). Chile announces flight tax to aid developing nations. Email communication 3 September.

Harnecker, C. P. (2006). If we don’t try, we’ve already made a mistake. New Internationalist, 390, June, p. 11.

Kaurna Higher Education Centre. (1993). Ethics in Aboriginal research. Aboriginal Research Institute, University of South Australia.

Kenny, C. (1996). It would be nice if there was some women’s business: The story behind the Hindmarsh Island affair. Potts Point, NSW: Duffy and Snellgrove.

